

President's Industrial Truce Surprise to Administration Aides

WASHINGTON—The President pulled a surprise on his labor and industrial advisers in proposing his employer-worker truce.

Not one of them had heard about it until he launched the plan in his recent "fireside chat." Officials of the Labor Department, NRA, and National Labor Relations Board knew no more about it than the millions of listeners in who heard the President's speech.

The real inside is that beyond the general idea of a truce, the President had no definite plan as to how it would be put into effect.

He hopes to work out these details in conference he is now holding with industrial and labor leaders. If a satisfactory formula can be devised, he will then convene a formal assembly of the two groups.

Background

The background of the origin of the plan is intriguing. It was conceived in the fertile mind of Donald R. Richberg, the President's new Chief of Staff on economic problems.

The object is to head off labor uprisings now threatening in three major industries—steel, automobile and rubber. In each of these, militant rank-and-file labor elements are getting ready to present demands as soon as the expected seasonal upswing materializes.

While these demands will include wage increases and hour reductions, the real issue will be the question of union recognition.

In projecting the truce scheme it was Richberg's thought that the trouble-breeding recognition issue could be sidetracked for the winter.

It is his theory that once this is out of the way, employers and workers in these three industries will have little difficulty in getting together on wages and hours.

Difficulties

The task of formulating a workable plan to put the truce into effect presents several difficulties. Of these the knottiest is how to assure that the truce, once formulated, will be accepted by every employer and every union.

President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. can not sign for all the affiliates of his organization. Likewise the National Manufacturers Association, the Chamber of Commerce, and other trade bodies, cannot pledge their individual members.

Each employer and each union will have to be polled—a job of no small magnitude.

The Senator

Fifty-six years old, five feet, two inches tall, and with a glistening diamond horse-shoe in a bright red tie, Theodore G. Bilbo, the Mississippi "wild-cat," is preparing for another descent on Washington.

His last appearance was as a $6,000 a year newspaper clipper for the AAA.

Bilbo wasn't much of a success as a clipper. But he did assemble quite a pile of newspaper poems. Collecting rhymes from papers is Bilbo's favorite hobby.

His next role in the Capital will be that of United States Senator. Having won the run-off nomination from Senator Hubert D. Stephens, Bilbo's election November 7 is certain.

Recently the little haranguer was interviewed regarding his forthcoming role in the national arena.

"Are you going to raise more hell than Huey Long, as you said you would in your campaign?"

"Say, I am no fool. I intend keeping absolutely silent for a year."

"Will you support the President?"

"I'll be with him 100 per cent—except when he goes counter to anything in my platform."

Bilbo ran on a platform of 27 planks, each making an appeal to a different set of voters.

"What about your statement that you are going to have all of Steph-

DEMOCRATS TO RALLY AT 7:30

Dill, Donahey, Underwood to Speak Before Huge Gathering in Memorial Hall; Hi Band to Appear

Tuesday was a perfect Democratic day and Memorial Hall, this evening, is expected to be crowded with followers of the rooster in the biggest pre-election rally planned here.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p. m. with three figures prominent in the Democratic circles of the nation, state and district to speak.

APPEARS FOR DAVEY

Carl Smith, secretary to Governor George White, will be at the Democratic rally tonight as the representative of Martin L. Davey, candidate for governor.

They are U. S. Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington; former Governor A. Vic Donahey, who aspires to the U. S. senate from Ohio, and Congressman Mell G. Underwood. Others who will be on the platform are Joe Ferguson, candidate for state treasurer; Herbert J. Duffy, candidate for state attorney general; August Weber and W. I. Spangler, candidates for the Ohio senate, and all the Pickaway-co candidates.

THREE TO SPEAK

Only three talks will be heard. Senator Dill's will be the feature, but in the point of interest that of Donahey is expected to lead the field. Donahey is the man who will draw the crowds through Memorial Hall's doors. Although the meeting is a Dill-Donahey affair, Underwood is scheduled for a short talk.

Mr. Underwood is carrying on a great part of his campaign in Pickaway and Ross-co where his opponent, Renick W. Dunlap, is certain to receive most of his votes. Realizing the necessity of making a good showing in this county Mr. Underwood is certain to have a message of importance. He received a splendid hand last Wednesday when he introduced Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The high school band, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, has been obtained by Chairman Adkins to march prior to the meeting.

A great crowd is expected to attend the meeting.

Underwood and William G. Pickrel appeared at a Democratic meeting Monday evening in Lancaster with both having important parts in the program.

The former's address covered national affairs while Pickrel made the following statement concerning the candidates:

FEELING IS HIGH

"In my various meetings throughout Ohio, advocating the election of Martin L. Davey and the entire Democratic ticket, I receive the same report from every section of the State,—Davey and Donahey will be the same tremendous vote getters at the November election as they have in years past. The judicial candidates, Judge Zimmerman, Judge Bevis and Judge McBride, will likewise secure a tremendous vote that assures their election."

The efforts to frighten the voters that has been used with some success in years past is a "dud" this year. The policies of Franklin Roosevelt and the Democratic Congress will be supported on November 6 by a larger majority than two years ago.

The recent reports tabulated by

JUGO-SLAVIAN KING IS SLAIN IN MARSEILLES

Louis Barthou, French Leader, Shot by Alexander's Countryman

TROUBLE IN OFFING

State Visit to Paris Ended By Killing

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 9.—King Alexander, of Jugo-Slavia, was assassinated at 12:30 p. m. today, (5:30 Paris time) while on a visit of state. He was shot to death by a Croatian, Petrus Kaleman, who jumped on the running board of the automobile while Alexander was riding with Louis Barthou, bearded former French minister, who also was shot to death.

A third man, reported a general, was gravely hurt and may die.

NATIVE JUGO-SLAVIAN

The assassin captured immediately after the shooting said he was a Jugo-Slavian by birth thus relieving tensely which might have caused international complications. It was feared Kaleman was an Italian.

Six revolver shots were fired at the visiting monarch, who rules as dictator of his country.

Early rumors said he sustained a wound, but these could not be confirmed immediately.

ON WAY TO PARIS

King Alexander reached here on a Jugo-Slavian warship, which had been escorted to the port by two French Mediterranean squadrons for a distance of 75 miles.

His original plans called for him to proceed immediately to Paris.

The shooting marred arrangements made months ago for a state visit designed to solidify the friendly relations between France and Jugo-Slavia, which have continued uninterrupted despite a recent realignment in the Balkans, which has placed Alexander's kingdom closer to Germany and further away from Italy and France.

Rides Pass Last Show

Krinn's Figures Show 42,227 As Compared With 28,486 Year Ago.

Comparative figures show the 1934 Pumpkin Show far ahead of 1933, if the rides can be used as a criterion. T. D. Krinn's figures disclosed today show that 42,227 tickets were collected on the six rides while a year ago that figure was but 28,486.

It would seem, then, that the show was far ahead of that of a year ago.

The figures include:

	1934	1933
Merry-go-round	6,991	6,666
Hey Day	15,365	7,260
Ferris Wheel	8,631	3,999
Kiddie Ride	2,930	2,207

METHODISTS PLAN ANNIVERSARY

Plans are being made by Rev. Herman A. Sayre, of the Methodist Episcopal church, to have an anniversary celebration the week of November 4 at which time the 125th birthday of Methodism in Circleville and the 25th anniversary of the building of the present church will be observed.

An effort will be made to make the outstanding event of the year.

DAVEY FOR HUMANE RELIEF PROGRAMS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—A promise from Martin L. Davey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, to "make the administration of relief more humane" and to eliminate much of the overhead cost of relief work was placed before the voters today.

"The trouble is that some professional relief workers are too scientific, whereas they ought to be more humane," Davey said in the second of his radio talks to the electorate.

EARLY VOTING FOR PROGRAM

Farmers of County To Conclude Ballotting on Corn-Hog Plan Tonight.

Early returns of the corn-hog referendum in Pickaway-co showed a trend toward continuation of the program, farm bureau officials disclosed Tuesday.

The voting is to be completed in the various townships tonight with the final outcome to be known by noon Wednesday. It is believed the county will vote to have the program continued.

Three townships had reported Tuesday morning with a result that one voted four to one in favor, another voted two and one-half to three to one against it, and the third was slightly in favor.

All farmers whether or not they participated in the program have a right to vote. The result of the Pickaway-co ballot must be known by state university officials not later than Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—A steadily increasing majority among Ohio farmers approving the New Deal as it applies to agriculture became apparent here today as the poll among farmers in the state's 88 counties passed the half way mark with a margin of more than 3,000 in favor of the corn, wheat, and hog reduction program of the AAA.

Complete returns from 45 counties showed 10,208 votes recorded favoring the retention of the program in 1935, with 7,110 against. J. W. Wuicheit, in charge of the tabulation of the votes, reported that only about 80 per cent of the farmers now under AAA contract had participated in the voting. Only those under contract or eligible for contracts are allowed to vote.

'VIC' MAY SHAKE HANDS WITH LEFT

A. Vic Donahey, candidate for the United States Senate, will shake hands with his friends when he comes here this evening but it may be with his left hand.

The former governor fell on the stone steps at his Indian Lake home, Sunday, and bruised his right shoulder.

He was helping the women folks work about the kitchen in preparation for a reception for his daughter, Dorothy, and her husband, Dr. James B. Johnson, when the accident happened.

At that he greeted about 300 guests shaking hands with all with the left hand.

VIOLATORS OF LAWS CAUGHT

Filipino Fined $150 and Costs Each On Liquor Possession Charge.

Courts of justice were busy Monday and Tuesday morning with a number of persons haled before judges, justices of the peace and mayors to answer to various charges.

Pedro Solis and Fidel Solis, Columbus Filipinos, were each fined $150 and costs and committed to the county jail when they pleaded guilty, Tuesday morning, before Judge J. W. Adkins to illegal possession of liquor. The Solises were arrested Sunday afternoon after their car was wrecked on Route 56, the Adelphi-pk.

Gerald Alston, Columbus negro, was fined $10 and costs by the court when he pleaded guilty to intoxication. Alston was with the Filipinos. A girl in the car was released.

ENROUTE TO CHICAGO

C. A. Bibb, of Beckley, W. Va., on his way to the Century of Progress, Chicago, posted $104.70 cash bond to appear before Mayor W. B. Cady Oct. 13 to answer to charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Bibb was arrested on Route 23 by Highway Patrolman Crume. Bibb's wife took the wheel and the couple went on toward Chicago.

Judge Adkins announced Tuesday that he had decided to free Forrest Roseboom, this city, from the county jail on a two-year parole. Roseboom, 44 years old, pleaded guilty to forgery.

In granting the parole, Judge Adkins recalled that Roseboom had never been in trouble before but warned him to remain away from "rum" tables during his parole. The entry for court record was being drawn by Prosecutor Ray W. Davis.

W. A. Keller, of Franklin-co, was forced to unload a load of coal, have his truck weighed, purchase correct tags for it, and pay a fine of $25 and costs to Squire H. O. Eveland when he was arrested by Highway Patrolman Moon for driving a truck carrying fictitious tags.

Francis Hoover, of Scioto-co, was fined $10 and costs by Squire Eveland when he was arrested by Highway Patrolman Sowers for reckless operation of his motor vehicle.

GIVES BOND, FREED

George Chesser, of Columbus and Vinton-co, posted bond for his part of his $100 fine after paying the remainder and was released from the county jail Tuesday. Chesser was arrested for driving while intoxicated and was fined by Squire Eveland.

John Lockard, Jackson-twp., posted bond for a $10 fine in Eveland's court after his arrest by Officer Moon for operating a car with fictitious license plates.

BUTZER IN DENIAL OF MURDER CHARGE

CHILLICOTHE, Oct. 9.—Not guilty was the plea of Charles Butzer, 50, of Londonderry, when he was arraigned Monday for the first degree murder of Guy Bayman, 34, of Columbus.

Butzer, an indigent prisoner, asked the court to appoint John P. Phillips, Jr., to defend him.

Trial date was set for Nov. 13 with 60 names to be drawn from a special jury venire.

SHOE FACTORIES TO OPEN THURSDAY

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Reopening of the Columbus and Lancaster plants of the Godman shoe companies on Thursday to provide work for 2,300 men was announced today after settlement of the seven-weeks-old strike at the factories.

The strikes gained working concessions but did not succeed in forcing the Godman officials to declare the factories "closed shops."

SEATS GO FAST

Every one of the 30,000 reserved seats was sold before 9 o'clock last night. A huge crowd again besieged Navin field early today seeking the available bleacher seats. It required only five hours to sell the 30,000 reserved seats last night. Visiting sports writers averred that Detroit has proved itself the most rabid baseball town in the country.

Despite the fact that Detroit has seen only one Tiger victory on the home lot against two heartbreaking defeats, the same enthusiasm prevailed today and yesterday, as on the first day of the series.

It was feared Cochrane would not be able to play today after spending the night in a hospital bed suffering from a spike wound.

Dr. W. E. Keane, Tiger club physician, said "Cochrane's condition has much improved although he has a spike wound in his leg."

OVER MILLION PAID BY SERIES CROWDS

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Gate receipts of the 1934 world series will run well over a million dollars.

And it is safe to say that the gross would have totaled twice as much had there been room to pack the rabid fans into Navin field and Sportsman's park.

Indications today were that this year's series, running the full limit of seven games, was one of the most profitable in the last ten years.

A total of 44,551 fans paid to see the sixth game yesterday, bringing the total series attendance to 240,000 persons who paid $393,178. If today's game nets a similar amount—and the crowds that jammed the entrance to Navin field this morning gave ample indication that it would—the total will be around $1,050,000.

BEHIND 1931 SERIES

Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, said he did not know whether the indicated figure for this year's games would top the receipts of the seven-game 1931 series between the Cardinals and the Athletics.

"Outside of that series," Judge Landis said, "I don't believe we've had a million dollar gate in the last five or six years."

Box office statistics on the sixth game were:

Paid attendance 44,551.
Gross receipts $143,960.
Share of each league $30,527.
Share of each club $30,527.
Share of Judge Landis' office (15 percent) $21,549.
Following are the series total statistics up to and including the sixth game:
Total paid attendance 240,608.
Gross receipts $393,178.
Players' pool (they share in the first four games only) $299,785.
Share of each club $114,900.
Share of each league $114,900.
Share of Judge Landis' office $134,101.

HAUPTMANN TO RESIST EXTRADITION FOR NEW JERSEY TRIAL

Attorney Plans Long Court Duel

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Desperately resisting any move to take him out of the state, Bruno Richard Hauptmann today fought with his back to the wall against extradition to New Jersey on an indictment charging the "premeditated" murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

As Bronx and New Jersey officials made ready for a conference today on ways and means of rushing extradition plans, the prisoner's counsel, James M. Fawcett, mapped out a bitter legal fight which conceivably may drag out in the courts for an indefinite period.

Over and above the purely technical aspects of the case, the perils of extradition for Hauptmann were brought home more forcibly than ever before by the disclosure that Col. Lindbergh had three identified Hauptmann's voice as that of the ransom receiver who called to Dr. John F. Condon in St. Raymond's cemetery on the night of April 2.

RELEASE DEMANDED
With Attorney General David Wilentz, of New Jersey, due to announce the date of the intended extradition today, indications were that Hauptmann's counsel will sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

This move will be possible after Hauptmann comes up in a court of record on the extradition warrant and makes an affidavit that he is guiltless of the crime.

A delay may then occur while the writ is being argued. And even if it is summarily set aside it may be appealed. Even if all court proceedings are rushed, as they unquestionably will be, a tedious interval may elapse.

The fact that some such strategy is being planned was confirmed in ringing tones by Fawcett himself. He said:

"I'll fight extradition to the last ditch. I'll go to Gov. Lehman, if necessary, to prevent any attempt to move my client to New Jersey."

But Attorney General Wilentz refused to admit that there would be any trouble in extraditing

Hauptmann. He disclosed that a representative of his office would be in Albany by tomorrow night to confer on procedure with Gov. Lehman. He commented, dryly:

"If Hauptmann is innocent I see no reason why his counsel should oppose extradition. I anticipate no difficulties. We expect to try him for murder."

So far as Bronx District Attorney Foley's plans for trying the suspect on an extortion charge are concerned, there was little consolation for Hauptmann in the prosecutor's attitude. If the Bronx district attorney insisted on proceeding with the extradition trial on Thursday Hauptmann would be spared the immediate ordeal of extradition.

But when Foley was asked whether he would move to dismiss the extortion case, he made this laconic reply:

DISMISS AFTER DEATH
"Sure, I'll dismiss it after Jersey has electrocuted him."

Although there has been no pause in the routine of preparing for the extradition trial in the Bronx on Thursday, Foley was to be one of the conferees today in Trenton, and there was no doubt that he would co-operate in plans for immediate extradition.

In Albany, it was indicated that Gov. Lehman would act promptly on the application for extradition as soon as he receives it from Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey.

The governor is expected to be back at his desk on Wednesday. He may decide to grant a hearing to Hauptmann's counsel but he is not obliged to do so by law. Nevertheless, the embattled attorney said he was determined to gain the governor's ear. He added:

"We will produce witnesses in any court to show that Hauptmann was not at Hopewell the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped nor at St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx the night the $50,000 ransom was paid."

This assertion was by way of a retort to District Attorney Foley's statement in open court that the evidence placing Hauptmann in the cemetery was not circumstantial but was based on an actual identification.

NAMED BY LINDBERGH
Foley refused to say who identified Hauptmann, but the implication was that Col. Lindbergh had put the "finger" on the suspect. A more definite statement on

What Will YOU Do to Help?

FACE the fact that you yourself, either through carelessness or indifference, are partially responsible for America's annual fire bill: 10,000 lives, 10,000 injuries, $500,000,000 property damage! Face the further fact that you have paid your share of that bill in taxes and insurance premiums. Finally, consider the possibility that next year your life, or the life of a dear one, may be numbered among the 10,000; that your property may be listed in next year's toll. What are you going to do about it?

Certainly there are numberless things you can do. Much progress has been made in the knowledge of fire, its causes, and its prevention. Science has contributed no end of equipment both for preventing and fighting fire. Modern building materials and methods of construction, modern heating systems, fire extinguishers, safety deposit vaults and professional garment cleaners all offer means for doing your bit to conquer man's most terrifying enemy. Take advantage of these agencies for your protection. Adopt precautionary measures: do everything in your power to lessen the tragic waste of fire. You owe it to yourself, your family and your neighbor.

To find the boss of the house, observe which one is taking a nap when nobody dares make a racket.

Dangerous Driving Days

DANGEROUS days are ahead for the motorist and pedestrian. Snow, ice, rain, fog, long nights and low visibility combine to make fall, winter and spring and to increase the hazards of traffic. From October until May one is safer in the security of his own home.

Timely warning was given by the American Automobile Association to the operator of a motor vehicle and to the pedestrian as the days become shorter and driving conditions become adverse. The warning will go unheeded by most but it will save some lives and prevent a great deal of anguish.

Those who are resigned to the thought that no amount of education, propaganda, control of regulation can materially reduce the number of traffic accidents will find refutation in the history of the school patrol. Although the number of school children and the number of motor vehicles have both increased tremendously since the school patrols were organized the accident rate among children going to and from school has diminished from year to year. Adequate control is the best accident preventive.

The automobile and motor truck have heated King Winter to become mediums of transportation in all seasons but the driver who overlooks the fact that rubber finds its best traction on a clean, dry highway and that the eye sees best through a clean windshield in clear weather is likely to find the next several months dangerous months.

Manners of the Old

YOUTH is too well-mannered to say so but it did not reflect the best of manners on his part when Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University observed before his student body that the manners of modern youth are "time and again quite shocking." It is decidedly bad manners to speak of the bad manners of others.

There are no statistics on the subject but it is quite probable that youth is as often shocked by the bad manners of its elders as old age is shocked by the manners of youth. No generation ever was as perfect as it might have been.

One sometimes wonders if the elders are actually as shocked as they pretend to be. Sometimes their reaction to the manners of youth seems more like envy than disgust. But when youth is shocked there is no mistake about it.

Youth hasn't been running this world but it will be running the world if the bold and the gray continue making a shockingly bad mess of things. The manners of the mature may be above reproach in social relations but the manners in which the "old man" does things politically, diplomatically, industrially and financially is often open to criticism.

DEATH SONG

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unpopular patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon and the other, a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillyer, playwright and patient, agree that the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors. Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph. Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You," sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren, and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, Mark's nurse. Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, does not appear at breakfast.

CHAPTER XIII

"Are you sure Felipa's not in her room?" I asked.

"I looked in before breakfast," Clendening said.

I began to feel uneasy.

"What time does she usually have breakfast?" I asked.

"At some ungodly hour," he announced. "She gets up about 6.30, makes her bed and is back from breakfast, usually, before any of us are up. I've never known her to be late before."

"Do you mind if I call the office and find out whether she's in the servants' dining room?"

The two men looked at me curiously. The color began to drain from Cross's face. Clendening nodded a silent assent, and I picked up the telephone. The clerk on duty in the lobby promised to inquire about Felipa and call me back. I sat down beside the telephone and was waiting for it to ring when James Ruxton returned from breakfast. He raised his eyebrows as he saw me.

"Good morning," I said. "Have you seen Felipa this morning, Mr. Ruxton?"

He thought for a moment and then shook his head. "No, I have not." He glanced at Clendening and Cross and a perplexed frown appeared on his face. "Isn't she here?" he asked.

"No," I said.

Dr. Calvert came up on the porch and entered the living room. He saw immediately from our troubled faces that something was wrong.

"What's the matter?" he demanded.

The telephone rang and I picked up the receiver quickly. The clerk said, "Felipa hasn't been in the dining room this morning. Is she—"

I did not wait to hear his question. I turned around and said, "Felipa hasn't been seen this morning."

Dr. Calvert almost ran to her room. "The little fool!" he muttered. Clendening sprang to his feet. "She's run away!" he cried.

"I might have known she would!" We could hear the physician hastily pulling out the drawers of her bureau. In a moment he came out into the living room. He said, "Some of her clothes seem to be gone."

Clendening walked to her open door and looked in. He turned to us with a puzzled expression.

"Did you see anything on the table?" he asked Dr. Calvert.

"Nothing except her alarm clock," the doctor answered.

Clendening, frowning, passed his hand over his eyes.

"That's funny," he said. "I looked in her room when the breakfast trays came, and I'm sure there was something under the clock—a piece of paper. It caught my eye because it was fluttering in the breeze."

The doctor shook his head. "It wasn't there when I went in. Maybe it blew on the floor."

We were all gathered in the doorway by then. Dr. Calvert got down on his hands and knees and looked under the bed and the bureau. He arose, dusting his hands, and shook his head.

"What is it?" he said.

"Felipa's disappeared," I said. "Not!" he cried. Sue looked startled and surprised.

"She ran away last night," I continued, and I told them what had happened at the cottage that morning. When I had finished, Mark nodded slowly.

"Of course, the sheriff didn't think of having her watched, even though he knew she was frightened and lying," he said.

"He probably drove her away with his bullying," Sue said indignantly.

Dangerous to Neglect a Felon

Serious Complications Often Follow This Common Infection

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FELON is a common affliction. It is caused by germs which have penetrated the skin of the finger. As a rule it can be traced to a slight wound, such as a pin scratch or a nail prick. Often the injury is trivial and is overlooked or forgotten until pain occurs.

This is probably why felons are so prevalent. The victim neglects the tiny scratch and fails to apply the necessary antiseptic. He does not realize that as the result of so trifling a break in the skin, germs enter and cause infection.

Though a felon is rarely dangerous it must never be neglected. The pain and discomfort of this condition should give warning of how important it is to prevent further spread of the infection. If overlooked, serious complications may occur. Many cases of so-called blood poisoning can be traced to what in the beginning was a trivial infection of the skin.

May Infect the Bone

The first signs of infection after a scratch or laceration of the finger, are throbbing and a feeling of fullness. The finger soon swells and the pain becomes severe, almost unbearable. When this occurs never postpone consulting a physician. If pus is present the doctor will make an incision and allow it to drain out. Provision will be made for drainage.

Lack of medical attention makes certain greater swelling and discomfort. If the infection persists and goes deeper, there is always danger of infection of the bone. Osteomyelitis, or infection of the bone, is a serious and dreaded complication. It delays recovery and makes convalescence a very slow process.

As I have pointed out, neglect may lead to spread of the infection into the hand and up the arm as well as into the deeper tissues. In that event a major operation may be necessary to save the hand or arm.

Never look upon a scratch or skin injury as a matter of no consequence. To be on the safe side, it is a good plan to apply a simple antiseptic, such as tincture of iodine. When in doubt consult your doctor.

Avoid Complications

I am confident that if these precautions were taken, felons would be less frequent and many serious complications would be avoided. Finger deformities and hand disabilities are all too common. They can be prevented by prompt attention to all hand injuries.

Every home, office and work shop should be equipped with the essentials of first aid. There should be a first aid kit. An adequate supply of bandages, gauze and suitable antiseptics should be available at all times. Immediate treatment at the start will prevent many hours of pain and suffering.

Answers to Health Queries

D. H. Q.—Where there is no indication of itching piles would an itching of the parts be a symptom of bookworm?

A.—No, the trouble may be due to intestinal worms or to some other irritation. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Martin Littleton, the great New York lawyer.

He is over here in Europe now like all of them prowling around. He is the fellow, you remember, all you old timers, that defended and saved his life, Harry Thaw. He is a real Lawyer and if you ever get into anything and are guilty, but guilty with money, why Martin will see that justice is done.

He is about the best talker that ever stood up from behind a free meal. He told me the following one on the state of Arizona.

A fellow who had been out there and got broke and had to stay longer than he thought, only had about one lone dollar and he went into a Restaurant and the waiter came up to him and said, "Sage Hen." It was the main diet that day and he thought of course it would be taken by the customer.

"What's sage hen?" asked the proprietor of the lone buck.

"It's like Prairie Chicken. They kill it out among the sage brush."

"Has it got wings?" asked the old boy that didn't crave Arizona.

"Yes," replied the Waiter.

"Well, then, I don't want it. Anything that has got wings and stays in Arizona, I don't want to eat such a crazy thing."

Cardinal Players Want 'Dizzy' on Mound Today

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—The dizziest, daffiest world series ever known will wind up today in a riot of personal feuds, with Cardinals and Tigers trying to sock each other and with both sides wholeheartedly damning Umpire Brick Owens from here to Shanghai and back. To say nothing of a few verbal brickbats tossed Umpire Bill Klem's way just for luck.

With such a sitting, anything may happen and probably will. On this single game hinges a world's championship, the major share of a king's ransom and perhaps a managerial head. The head in question belongs to Frankie Frisch and rumor has it, if he loses this series, he loses his job.

SPOT FOR DIZZY

It's a natural spot for Dizzy Dean—a dizzy spot for a dizzy lad in the dizziest of all series—and he insists on putting himself in it.

He's 20 pounds underweight. He's pale and anemic looking. His eyes are sunk in his head and his cheeks are hollow. He admits his fast ball has flown and he's lost his curve.

Yet he insists on pitching because he has a fighting heart and a great competitive spirit and because he knows his buddies are relying on him to bring home the bacon.

Ernie Orsetti, the game little outfielder who has been playing with swollen wrists and a Charley horse, spoke the minds of all the Cardinals when he said last night, "I'd rather have Dizzy out there with nothing than anybody else with everything."

The Cardinals have waxed fat on a steady diet of beans—Dizzy and Daffy—and they still think they can't get too much of them. But what's one man's meat is another man's poison and the Dean diet has been pure poison for the Tigers.

With so much dough at stake, the players usually have the final word in selecting the deciding pitcher. Therefore, Frisch and Cochrane may be forced to pitch Dizzy and old General Crowder. The Tigers have confidence in the General and, strangely enough, they have none in young Auker al-

As Buckeyes Crushed Hoosiers

Reaching the goal line is Frank Boucher, Ohio State back, who has just completed a 78-yard run to touchdown—one of the thrills in Ohio's 33-9 triumph over "Bo" McMillin's Indiana squad in the opening Big Ten game in Columbus.

though he won one game for them in this series.

Yes, this has been a dizzy series and Dizzy Dean is far from being the dizziest lad in it. As a matter of fact, once they're out on the field, he's probably the smartest one on it.

CARDS CRAZY

But there's many a laugh in all of them. For instance take the Cardinal's clubhouse after yesterday's game where all the Red Birds from east boy to manager are busy kissing each other like a lot of French generals bestowing the Croix De Guerre.

Listen to the Cards' husky 19-year-old catcher, Bill DeLancey, speaking in his slowest Nawth Carolinah drawl: "Them newspaper writers misquoted me. I nevah said Brick Owens was a thieving umphah. No, suh. I ain't no sissy. What I said was: You're a blank-ety blank, blank, blank' what's moah, I'm goin' to bust him right in the nose the first chance I get."

And over in the Tiger clubhouse the ludicrous expressions on the faces of Graham McNamee and the moving picture men was worth a stiff admission price. They had a set-up worthy of a Belasco. Kleig lights, wires, huge cameras and other paraphernalia were scattered all over the place waiting to have Mickey Cochrane say for posterity just how he won the world series.

Instead, there was poor Mickey lying naked on a table with a doctor and trainer working over the long cut on his knee cap inflicted by Daffy Dean's spikes. Mickey had little that was quotable to say for a family newspaper but he did admit he would like "to punch that damn Orsatti right in the jaw."

Mickey didn't mind the spike wound. That was an unfortunate accident. But he did mind in no un-

ARMBRUST LEADING OHIO GRID SCORERS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Despite the attempt of Ohio's gridgers to catch up on the idle Elden Armbrust of Ohio University, a computation of individual scorings today showed that John Zontini, of Marshall, was the closest competitor but that he remained three points short.

Armbrust, 140 pound back, piled up 33 points in the game against Rio Grande two weeks ago. Although he has not scored since, Armbrust still leads the pack.

Zontini got three touchdowns against Bethany Saturday, but it brought his total to 30.

John Turvey, of Ohio Wesleyan, is in third place by virtue of two touchdowns and two extra points last Friday night in the Dayton game.

certain terms being knocked flat at the plate by Orsatti.

"Hell," consoled old Goose Goslin, "Just think what would have happened if the crazy cave man had hit yuh." Mickey grinned, then winced as the doctor worked on the knee. It developed that the "crazycave man" Goslin referred to is Pepper Martin.

"Yeh, that's right," said Mickey. "I had more than enough of that guy once before. Those Carls are the craziest lot of lunatics I've ever seen on one ball club. They're all half nuts. I don't see how the rest of them have nerve enough to call Dean, Dizzy. They're dizzier than he is."

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

"MIGHT NOT HAVE BEEN"

Paul Dean, stronger in this world series than his more publicized brother, Jerome, might not have been with the Cardinals this year had he not produced at a strategic moment—Early in the season Paul did not do so well; in fact, those National league teams seemed a little too tough for the rookie from Columbus. He was driven from the box in his first two appearances and was just about ready to hop a rather to Columbus again when he entered a game and pitched ball. The result is that Paul was one of the stars of the National league season, and that today he is the world series hero.

PITCHERS DOUBTFUL

"Shoot the works" will be the by-word of Managers Frankie Frisch and Mickey Cochrane this afternoon. One team has as good a chance as the other in our belief with the aces of both staffs tired and not ready to climb the mound. Rowe should not, but may, go back to the hill while Dizzy Dean is showing the effects of his hard work. Paul has strength enough to go again and may get a chance before the day is over. The logical hill choices seemed to be Hallahan for the Cardinals and Auker or Crowder for the Tigers.

TIGERS TO GRANDVIEW

Circleville's Tigers must do some perking up or they are going to lose another Central Buckeye league fray by a big score to Grandview Friday in that town. Marvsville pulled a surprise by beating the Red and Black by a lop-sided score. Grandview defeated Delaware by as big a margin. Coach Herberholz had his boys working hard Monday night and will probably drive them the remainder of the week in an effort to forge together a fighting combination. We still insist that a line which does not charge cannot stop the onslaughts of another team's ball carriers.

Rothrock Scoring That All Important First Run

Flashing into home plate in the first inning of the sixth world series game, played in Detroit, is Jack Rothrock, St. Louis outfielder, to score the first of the Red Birds' runs in their dramatic 4-3 victory over Schoolboy Rowe. This game evened the series at three-all.

Marshall and Wesleyan Begin "Buckeye" Season

By GILSON WRIGHT

DELAWARE, Oct. 9.—Marshall college and Ohio Wesleyan, the only undefeated teams in the Buckeye conference, will meet Saturday afternoon at Huntington, W. Va. in the first official conference game of the season. Each team kept its record clean and its goal line uncrossed last week, Marshall by trouncing Bethany, 39 to 0, and Ohio Wesleyan by defeating Dayton, 21 to 0. Previously Marshall had won from Transylvania, 12 to 0, and Ohio Wesleyan had downed Heidelberg, 24 to 0.

The game will mark Ohio Wesleyan's first invasion of West Virginia, and Marshall college athletic heads are anticipating a crowd of 10,000 to greet the Battling Bishops. Marshall college has played the Bishops several times before, but always on the latter team's field at Delaware.

The other three conference teams will continue non-league competition Saturday, Cincinnati playing Vanderbilt at night on the Bearcat's gridiron; Miami meeting Hanover at Oxford, and Ohio, after a two weeks' rest, taking on Georgetown at Athens.

Cincinnati's 27 to 0 defeat at the hands of the University of Kentucky, and Miami's strong showing against Carnegie Tech were features of games played by conference teams last week. It was the worst defeat suffered by the Bearcats in several seasons, while Miami's play against Tech puts the Redskins' stock a little higher. Carnegie Tech won, 13 to 7, but reports from Pittsburgh say the Miami eleven outplayed its rivals in the last half.

Ohio university, rested from its 27 to 0 defeat at Indiana a week ago, will start all over in the Georgetown game. Coach Don Peden has erased part of the team's weaknesses which proved costly in the tussle with the Hoosiers.

The Marshall-Ohio Wesleyan game automatically will give the winner leadership in the Buckeye

BIRDS IN LEAD

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Determined to end the Little World's Series the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Columbus Red Birds will meet in a sun-moon doubleheader today if necessary to decide the minor league championship.

With Columbus within one game of the championship by virtue of the 9 to 8 win last night in a last minute uprising, the series may not go into the moon part of the doubleheader tonight, but if Toronto wins the afternoon game, putting the series at four games each, then the battle will end under the floodlights tonight.

Only a few more than 1,500 cash customers watched the Birds come from behind to win in the ninth inning last night.

Don Brennan, on the mound for the Leafs, held the Birds in check with ease until the ninth inning. Then he cracked, and five runs crossed the plate off of his last offerings and those of Hilder.

The Birds used Heusser, Greer and Cross as hurriers in an effort to break up the hitting of the Leafs.

race, for no other conference game is scheduled until the following Saturday when Ohio will play at Miami in what should prove to be one of the outstanding game in the conference this year.

BISHOPS 13 TO 0

Marshall lost to the Bishops, 13 to 0, at Delaware last year, but the Thundering Herd is reported to be stronger this fall. The result of Saturday's game is considered a toss-up.

Magenta Color

Magenta, a purplish-red hue, is less than 100 years old as a color name. In 1857, the Italians and Austrians fought near Milan, in the town of Magenta. Garibaldi's volunteers are said to have appeared wearing uniforms of a strange new color. From that date on, this particular hue has been known as "magenta."

This Great Crowd Saw Cards Humble Rowe

Here are some of the 45,000 thrilled baseball fans who saw the St. Louis Cardinals' humble Schoolboy Rowe, Tiger mound star, in the sixth game of the world series, played in Detroit. The Red Birds' victory forced the series into seven full games, with the teams tied at three-all.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Walter Futter, of the Futter Productions Co. I first tangled with Walter out at Goldwyn's Movie Studio in Culver City. He was what you call a cutter. That is a fellow that if the picture hasn't been taken bad enough in the first place, why he cuts it all up and puts it back together so it makes it look like something. Well, here I meet him in Berlin the other day and he is a real producer and buyer and seller of Movies, and is a real live hustling kid. If you haven't gone into the movie business yet, why you can't do worse than Walter. He will sell you anything that was ever taken. Well, we sit having "Ein Dunkle" one night, arguing over the movies, and just as I was going to sleep he broke out with the following: He went back home to where he had lived in Pennsylvania. He asked about a certain Jones family that used to live there and they told him here is what happened to them. "Tom, he is out where you come from in Hollywood. He is in the Movies. He is a Movie, Shiek and doing fine, they say. Jack, that's the next one; he turned Stage Actor and you see his picture ever once in awhile. William is an Artist; he is a pretty good Painter, they say. Mary, the Sister, is doing some Literary work, but Sam, he never amounted to anything at all. He stayed here, and it just took about all he ever made to support the rest of them."

Counterfeiting

Counterfeiting, on the increase ever since New Deal currency was rushed through the presses, is keeping the Secret Service busy in Washington.

On every Government payday, several hundred thousand dollars of new money is put into circulation. And filtering into this is an alarming amount of counterfeit.

Most of it is so perfect an imitation that frequently it passes through the hands of bank-tellers before detected. Secret Service operators suspect that the ring has employed several former engravers from the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

That the Treasury is tightening its grip on the counterfeiting operations, however, is indicated by the fact that raes a bogus money

A Reduction for Cash

ANY SCOT will tell you that, while as a race the Scotch are thrifty, it is in Aberdeen that thrift is an exact science.

And it was in Aberdeen, so the story runs, than an especially frugal citizen entered an apothecary's shop or, as we would say in America, a drugstore. He told the proprietor that he wished to purchase tripeuce worth of morphine.

The chemist pondered over a request so unusual. Customarily he sold the drug only on a physician's prescription; but this customer was known to him as reputable and responsible. Nevertheless, he must make sure the purpose was proper.

"Tripeuce worth of morphine, eh?" he said. "What would you be wantin' it for?"

The native thought a moment. "Tupence," he said.

have dropped from 20 per cent to ten per cent. In other words the "passer" now pays only $100 for $1,000 of bogus bills where he once paid $200. The difference between what he pays and the face value of the bill represents the potential profit to him.

Merry-Go-Round

Calvert Magruder, Harvard law professor recently appointed general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, began his legal career in 1916 as secretary to Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Magruder was the first of the long succession of brilliant young Harvard law graduates who have served one year's apprenticeship under the liberal jurist. Four of Brandeis' former secretaries are professors of law at Harvard, one at Yale, one at Wisconsin, another at Minnesota. . . . Fingerprinting as a crime detector was originated in England in the early 1890's, but today the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department has the most modern and complete collection of fingerprints in the world. J. Edgar Hoover began this collection in 1920, with two clerks assigned to the job. Today this work requires 315 experts and assistants. The collection contains 4,500,000 sets of prints, with new ones coming in at the rate of 2,500 a day. Famed Scotland Yard has only 500,000 prints.

Although he won the Republican nomination in his district, Wisconsin's Representative George W. Blanchard apparently doesn't consider his election chances in November worth the trouble. He has announced he has retired from the race to become attorney for the United States Brewers' Association. Blanchard was being opposed by militant young Thomas R. Amle. . . . The recent Fourth Liberty Loan bond refinancing will save taxpayers $13,000,000 annually in interest charges. The bonds were exchanged for 10 to 12 year bonds at 3 1/4 per cent or for four-year notes carrying 2 1/2 per cent. . . . Central Bank advocates are losing no time preparing for the battle they propose in the coming session of Congress. They have organized a "Sound Money League" with headquarters in Washington, to direct their campaign. . . . Head of the new body is ex-Senator Robert L. Owen, co-author of the Federal Reserve Act.

Splendid Talent Obtained For Series at Capital U.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—An unusual array of excellent attractions have been scheduled to appear on the current season of the Capital University Concert Lecture series to offer the public seven outstanding concerts.

The season opens October 26 with the popular radio tenor, Nino Martini, whose debut in the Metropolitan Opera last season was the sensation of the year. This young Italian who is so familiar to radio fans, is capable of singing with ease the "F" above high "C," which is the highest known voice in the musical world of men singers.

COSSACKS NOV. 17
On November 17 the Don Cossacks Russian Male Chorus will make their fourth consecutive appearance in Columbus to try to sing for the hundreds of admirers who have been unable to hear them, so far, in spite of packed houses. The Cossacks sing an entirely new program of Russian music and present some interesting Russian dances. On that date they appear in both matinee and evening performances.

AMERICAN WOMEN HELD BY CHINESE

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Chinese Communists in Kichow have kidnaped a number of missionaries, including an American, Miss Grace Emblen, according to a cable received by the China inland mission from Shanghai today.

All the others were believed to be British.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Thirty-five members of the crew of a Japanese ship turned pirate, raided and sacked the British island of Haggerstone, 125 miles from Thursday Island, between Australia and New Guinea, says a dispatch in the London Daily Herald from Brisbane, Australia, today.

The Japanese landed while the few settlers were absent from their village, smashed the landing stage, looted the cottages, and burned the coconut groves, according to the dispatch.

Officer's Murderer Electrocuted Today

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 9.—Boastful and defiant to the last, Edward Coffin, 21, of Greenfield, was sent to his death in the electric chair here today for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick, of Scott-co.

On June 6, last, Coffin, discouraged because he could not find work, joined a youthful gang and was alleged to have been the trigger man in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Amick and the fatal wounding of John Pfaffenberger, a Seymour policeman.

WOMAN STRANGLED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 9.—Strangled with a man's handkerchief jammed in her throat, the body of a young woman recovered from the St. Joseph's river near here furnished authorities today with an apparent murder mystery.

Effect of Paint on Glass

The national bureau of standards says that black paint "draws heat" in the sense that it absorbs 96 to 97 per cent of the sun's rays. Glass painted black becomes heated and not being well annealed, cracks. A white paint, or "white wash," reflects 60 to 75 per cent of the sun's rays, keeping the glass much cooler.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

President's Industrial Truce Surprise to Administration Aides

WASHINGTON—The President pulled a surprise on his labor and industrial advisers in proposing his employer-worker truce.

Not one of them had heard about it until he launched the plan in his recent "fireside chat." Officials of the Labor Department, NRA, and National Labor Relations Board knew no more about it than the millions of listeners in who heard the President's speech.

The real inside is that beyond the general idea of a truce, the President had no definite plan as to how it would be put into effect.

He hopes to work out these details in conference he is now holding with industrial and labor leaders. If a satisfactory formula can be devised, he will then convene a formal assembly of the two groups.

Background

The background of the origin of the plan is intriguing.

It was conceived in the fertile mind of Donald R. Richberg, the President's new Chief of Staff on economic problems.

The object is to head off labor uprisings now threatening in three major industries—steel, automobile, and rubber. In each of these, militant rank-and-file labor elements are getting ready to present demands as soon as the expected seasonal upswing materializes.

While these demands will include wage increases and hour reductions, the real issue will be the question of union recognition.

In projecting the truce scheme it was Richberg's thought that the trouble-breeding recognition issue could be sidetracked for the winter.

It is his theory that once this is out of the way, employers and workers in these three industries will have little difficulty in getting together on wages and hours.

Difficulties

The task of formulating a workable plan to put the truce into effect presents several difficulties. Of these the knottiest is how to assure that the truce-plan, when formulated, will be accepted by every employer and every union.

President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. can not sign for all the affiliates of his organization. Likewise the National Manufacturers Association, the Chamber of Commerce, and other trade bodies, cannot pledge their individual members.

Each employer and each union will have to be polled—a job of no small magnitude.

The Senator

Fifty-six years old, five feet, two inches tall, and with a glistening diamond horse-shoe in a bright red, Theodore G. Bilbo, the Mississippi "wild-cat," is preparing for another descent on Washington.

His last appearance was as a $6,000 a year newspaper clipper for the AAA.

Bilbo wasn't much of a success as a clipper. But he did assemble quite a pile of newspaper poems. Collecting rhymes from papers is Bilbo's favorite hobby.

His next role in the Capital will be that of United States Senator. Having won the run-off nomination from Senator Hubert D. Stephens, Bilbo's election November 7 is certain.

Recently the little haranguer was interviewed regarding his forthcoming role in the national arena.

"Are you going to raise more hell than Huey Long, as you said you would in your campaign?"

"Say, I am no fool. I intend keeping absolutely silent for a year."

"Will you support the President?"

"I'll be with him 100 per cent—except when he goes counter to anything in my platform."

Bilbo ran on a platform of 27 planks, each making an appeal to a different set of voters.

"What about your statement that you are going to have all of Steph-

DEMOCRATS TO RALLY AT 7:30

Dill, Donahey, Underwood to Speak Before Huge Gathering in Memorial Hall; Hi Band to Appear

Tuesday was a perfect Democratic day and Memorial Hall, this evening, is expected to be crowded with followers of the rooster in the biggest pre-election rally planned here.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p. m. with three figures prominent in the Democratic circles of the nation, state and district to speak.

APPEARS FOR DAVEY

Carl Smith, secretary to Governor George White, will be at the Democratic rally tonight as the representative of Martin L. Davey, candidate for governor.

They are U. S. Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington; former Governor A. Vic Donahey, who aspires to the U. S. senate from Ohio, and Congressman Mell G. Underwood. Others who will be on the platform are Joe Ferguson, candidate for state treasurer; Herbert J. Duffy, candidate for state attorney general; August Weber and W. I. Spangler, candidates for the Ohio senate, and all the Pickaway-co candidates.

THREE TO SPEAK

Only three talks will be heard. Senator Dill's will be the feature, but in the point of interest that of Donahey is expected to lead the field. Donahey is the man who will draw the crowds through Memorial Hall's doors. Although the meeting is a Dill-Donahey affair, Underwood is scheduled for a short talk. G. G. Adkins, chairman of the meeting, stated Tuesday.

Mr. Underwood is carrying on a great part of his campaign in Pickaway and Ross-co's where his opponent, Renick W. Dunlap, is certain to receive most of his votes. Realizing the necessity of making a good showing in this county Mr. Underwood is certain to have a message of importance. He received a splendid hand last Wednesday when he introduced Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The high school band, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, has been obtained by Chairman Adkins to march prior to the meeting.

A great crowd is expected to attend the meeting.

Underwood and William G. Pickrel appeared at a Democratic meeting Monday evening in Lancaster with both having important parts in the program.

The former's address covered national affairs while Pickrel made the following statement concerning the candidates:

FEELING IS HIGH

"In my various meetings throughout Ohio, advocating the election of Martin L. Davey and the entire Democratic ticket, I receive the same report from every section of the State—Davey and Donahey will be the same tremendous vote getters at the November election as they have in years past. The judicial candidates, Judge Zimmerman, Judge Bevis and Judge McBride, will likewise secure a tremendous vote that assures their election."

The efforts to frighten the voters that has been used with some success in years past in a "duel" year. The policies of Franklin Roosevelt and the Democratic Congress will be supported on November 6 by a larger majority than two years ago.

The recent reports tabulated by

JUGO-SLAVIAN KING IS SLAIN IN MARSEILLES

Louis Barthou, French Leader, Shot by Alexander's Countryman

TROUBLE IN OFFING

State Visit to Paris Ended By Killing

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 9.—King Alexander, of Jugo-Slavia, was assassinated at 12:30 p. m. today, (5:30 Paris time) while on a visit of state. He was shot to death by a Croat, Petrus Kalem, who jumped on the running board of the automobile while Alexander was riding with Louis Barthou, bearded former French minister, who also was shot to death.

A third man, reported a general, was gravely hurt and may die.

NATIVE JUGO-SLAVIAN

The assassin captured immediately after the shooting said he was a Jugo-Slavian by birth thus relieving tensely which might have caused international complications. It was feared Kalem was an Italian.

Six revolver shots were fired at the visiting monarch, who rules as dictator of his country.

Early rumors said he sustained a wound, but these could not be confirmed immediately.

ON WAY TO PARIS

King Alexander reached here on a Jugo-Slavian warship, which had been escorted to the port by two French Mediterranean squadrons for a distance of 75 miles.

His original plans called for him to proceed immediately to Paris.

The shooting marred arrangements made months ago for a state visit designed to solidify the friendly relations between France and Jugo-Slavia, which have continued uninterrupted despite a recent realignment in the Balkans, which has placed Alexander's kingdom closer to Germany and further away from Italy and France.

Rides Pass Last Show

Krinn's Figures Show 42,227 As Compared With 28,486 Year Ago.

Comparative figures show the 1934 Pumpkin Show far ahead of 1933, if the rides can be used as a criterion. T. D. Krinn's figures disclosed today show that 42,227 tickets were collected on the six rides while a year ago that figure was but 28,486.

It would seem, then, that the show was far ahead of that of a year ago.

The figures include:

	1934	1933
Merry-go-round	6,991	6,666
Hey Day	15,365	7,260
Ferris Wheel	8,631	3,999
Kiddie Ride	2,930	2,207
Venian swings	2,392	2,932
Lindy Loop	5,918	4,312
Total	42,227	28,486

METHODISTS PLAN ANNIVERSARY

Plans are being made by Rev. Herman A. Sayre, of the Methodist Episcopal church, to have an anniversary celebration the week of November 4 at which time the 125th birthday of Methodism in Circleville and the 25th anniversary of the building of the present church will be observed.

An effort will be made to make the outstanding event of the year.

"Prince" Mike Turns to Stage

Harry Gerguson, known on Broadway as "Prince" Michael Romanoff, finally has found a niche for himself along the Great White Way. The "prince," whom the federal government sought to deport last year, and who has been posing as a foreign aristocrat, is said to be considering an offer to act the role of a society imposter in a play due for presentation in New York City soon.

DAVEY FOR HUMANE RELIEF PROGRAMS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—A promise from Martin L. Davey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, to "make the administration of relief more humane" and to eliminate much of the overhead cost of relief work was placed before the voters today.

The trouble is that some professional relief workers are too scientific, whereas they ought to be more humane," Davey said in the second of his radio talks to the electorate.

EARLY VOTING FOR PROGRAM

Farmers of County To Conclude Ballotting on Corn-Hog Plan Tonight.

Early returns of the corn-hog referendum in Pickaway-co showed a trend toward continuation of the program, farm bureau officials disclosed Tuesday.

The voting is to be completed in the various townships tonight with the final outcome to be known by noon Wednesday. It is believed the county will vote to have the program continued.

Three townships had reported Tuesday morning with a result that one voted four to one in favor, another voted two and one-half to three to one against it, and the third was slightly in favor.

All farmers whether or not they participated in the program have a right to vote. The result of the Pickaway-co ballot must be known by state university officials no later than Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—A steadily increasing majority among Ohio farmers approving the New Deal, as it applies to agriculture, became apparent here today as the poll among farmers in the state's 88 counties passed the half way mark with a margin of more than 500 in favor of the corn, wheat and hog reduction program of the A.A.A.

Complete returns from 45 counties showed 10,208 votes recorded favoring the retention of the program in 1935, with 7,110 against. J. W. Wulchert, in charge of tabulation of the votes, reported that only about 80 per cent of the farmers now under AAA contracts had participated in the voting. Only those under contract or those for contracts are allowed to vote.

COINCIDENT FOUND IN TWO PICTURES

Quite a coincidence occurred in last Saturday's Herald when the pictures of Miss Eleanor Anderson, "Miss Pumpkin Show," and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, of the war department, appeared.

Some observed a similarity between Miss Anderson's and Gen. MacArthur's pictures, and rightfully so because they are distant relatives.

'VIC' MAY SHAKE HANDS WITH LEFT

A. Vic Donahey, candidate for the United States Senate, will shake hands with his friends when he comes here this evening but it may be with his left hand.

The former governor fell on the stone steps at his Indian Lake home, Sunday, and bruised his right shoulder.

He was helping the women folks work about the kitchen in preparation for a reception for his daughter, Dorothy, and her husband, Dr. James B. Johnson, when the accident happened.

At that he greeted about 300 guests shaking hands with all with the left hand.

VIOLATORS OF LAWS CAUGHT

Filipino Fined $150 and Costs Each On Liquor Possession Charge.

Courts of justice were busy Monday and Tuesday morning with a number of persons haled before judges, justices of the peace and mayors to answer to various charges.

Pedro Solis and Fidel Solis, Columbus Filipinos, were each fined $150 and costs and committed to the county jail when they pleaded guilty, Tuesday morning, before Judge J. W. Adkins to illegal possession of liquor. The Solises were arrested Sunday afternoon after their car was wrecked on Route 56, the Adelphi-pk.

Gerald Alston, Columbus negro, was fined $10 and costs by the court when he pleaded guilty to intoxication. Alston was with the Filipinos. A girl in the car was released.

ENROUTE TO CHICAGO

C. A. Bibb, of Beckley, W. Va., on his way to the Century of Progress, Chicago, posted $104.70 cash bond to appear before Mayor W. B. Cady Oct. 13 to answer to charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Bibb was arrested on Route 23 by Highway Patrolman Crume. Bibb's wife took the wheel and the couple went on toward Chicago.

Judge Adkins announced Tuesday that he had decided to free Forrest Roseboom, this city, from the county jail on a two-year parole. Roseboom, 44 years old, pleaded guilty to forgery.

In granting the parole, Judge Adkins recalled that Roseboom had never been in trouble before but warned him to remain away from "rum" tables during his parole. The entry for court record was being drawn by Prosecutor Ray W. Davis.

FILES FORECLOSURE

The Columbus Mutual Life Insurance Co., represented by C. H. May and S. A. Hoskins, had filed an action in common pleas court today against C. P. Heiskell, Maggie Terry, the Pickaway-co Finance Co., and the county treasurer, for $5,000 and foreclosure of a mortgage.

COGNOVIT FOR $605

C. K. Hunsicker has filed a cognovit action against Carleton Cross for $605 with 8 per cent interest. Weldon and Weldon are his attorneys.

RADCLIFF RECEIVER

William D. Radcliff, Williamsport, has been named by Judge Wilbur McKenzie, of Ross-co, as receiver for property involved in the suit of the Prudential Insurance Co. against John E. Stevenson, et al., in courts of that county. Radcliff has furnished bond of $5,000.

Radcliff was favored by the plaintiff for receiver.

The defendant's motion to dissolve an injunction previously granted to prevent the sale of wheat grown in 1934 was allowed. The court ruled this wheat was not subject to the receivership and ordered Immel brothers to pay the funds from the sale to Radcliff, for Katherine N. Stevenson.

GIVES BOND, FREED

George Chesser, of Columbus and Vinton-co, posted bond for part of his $100 fine after paying the remainder and was released from the county jail Tuesday. Chesser was arrested for driving while intoxicated and was fined by Squire Eveland.

John Jackson, Jackson-twp., posted bond for a $10 fine in Eveland's court after his arrest by Officer Moon for operating a car with fictitious license plates.

BUTZER IN DENIAL OF MURDER CHARGE

CHILLICOTHE, Oct. 9.—Not guilty was the plea of Charles Butzer, 50, of Londonderry, when he was arraigned Monday for the first degree murder of Guy Bayman, 31, of Columbus.

Butzer, an indigent prisoner, asked the court to appoint John P. Phillips, Jr., to defend him.

Trial date was set for Nov. 13 with 60 names to be drawn from a special jury venire.

SHOE FACTORIES TO OPEN THURSDAY

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Reopening of the Columbus and Lancaster plants of the Godman shoe companies on Thursday to provide work for 2,300 men was announced today after settlement of the seven-weeks-old strike at the factories.

The strikes gained working concessions but did not succeed in forcing the Godman officials to declare the factories "closed shops."

SEATS GO FAST

Every one of the 30,000 reserved seats was sold before 9 o'clock last night. A huge crowd again besieged Navin field early today, seeking the available bleacher seats. It required only five hours to sell the 30,000 reserved seats last night. Visiting sports writers averred that Detroit has proved itself the most rabid baseball town in the country.

Despite the fact that Detroit has seen only one Tiger victory on the home lot against two heart-breaking defeats, the same enthusiasm prevailed today and yesterday, as on the first day of the series.

It was feared Cochrane would not be able to play today after spending the night in a hospital bed suffering from a spike wound.

Dr. W. E. Keane, Tiger club physician, said "Cochrane's condition has much improved although he has a spike wound in his leg."

OVER MILLION PAID BY SERIES CROWDS

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Gate receipts of the 1934 world series will run well over a million dollars.

And it is safe to say that the gross would have totaled twice as much had there been room to pack the rabid fans into Navin field and Sportsman's park.

Indications today were that this year's series, running the full limit of seven games, was one of the most profitable in the last ten years.

A total of 44,551 fans paid to see the sixth game yesterday, bringing the total series attendance to 240,000 persons who paid $593,178. If today's game nets a similar amount—and the crowds that jammed the entrance to Navin field this morning gave ample indication that it would—the total will be around $1,050,000.

BEHIND 1931 SERIES

Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, said he did not know whether the indicated figure for this year's games would top the receipts of the seven-game 1931 series between the Cardinals and the Athletics.

"Outside of that series," Judge Landis said, "I don't believe we've had a million dollar game in the last five or six years."

Box office statistics on the sixth game were:

Paid attendance 44,551.
Gross receipts $143,660.
Share of each league $30,527.
Share of each club $30,527.
Share of Judge Landis' office (15 percent) $21,549.

Following are the series total statistics up to and including the sixth game:

Total paid attendance 240,000.
Gross receipts $593,178.
Players' pool (they share in the first four games only) $299,785.
Share of each club $114,900.
Share of each league $114,900.
Share of Judge Landis' office $134,101.

DADS' TO AGAIN HEAR ORDINANCE

Council will meet Wednesday evening to hear for the second time its contemplated ordinance to prevent sale of beer and liquor between 12 o'clock midnight and 6 a. m. One councilman pointed out that the ordinance does not prohibit sale of beer on Sunday between 6 a. m. and 12 o'clock midnight but does bar the sale of hard liquors during that time.

It is possible the ordinance may be called out for passage with rules being suspended but the more probable course is to let it remain in committee until its third reading.

Council will also discuss several proposed sewer projects in the city which will be presented to Federal Emergency Relief officials if the city can guarantee the cost of materials.

SIXTEEN KIWANIS VISIT CHILLICOTHE

Sixteen members of the local Kiwanis club enjoyed a district meeting at the Warner house, Chillicothe, Monday evening with 140 other Kiwanians in attendance. A number of persons important in Ohio Kiwanis were introduced during the evening. Ben Arneson, of Ohio Wesleyan University, Chillicothe, was lastmaster.

The speaker of the evening was "Koy" Rowsewell, of Pittsburgh, who used as his subject, "The Value of a Laugh." Rowsewell, who dispensed plenty of good sense in attendance to a real sense of humor was greatly appreciated by his listeners.

BROTHERHOOD TO MEET

The Oberlin brotherhood will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to transact business.

BIRTHS

Announcement is being made of the birth on Sept. 12 of a son in Mt. Sinai hospital, Cleveland, to Mr. and Mrs. Nut C. Lerkovitz, 2423 Overlook-lr., Cleveland Heights.

Mrs. Lerkovitz, before her marriage was Miss Helene M. Rothman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rothman.

The fire department was called at 9:45 p. m. Monday to extinguish a fire in an old car on North rd. Little damage was done.

HAUPTMANN TO RESIST EXTRADITION FOR NEW JERSEY TRIAL

Attorney Plans Long Court Duel

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Desperately resisting any move to take him out of the state, Bruno Richard Hauptmann today fought with his back to the wall against extradition to New Jersey on an indictment charging the "premeditated" murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

As Bronx and New Jersey officials made ready for a conference today on ways and means of rushing extradition plans, the prisoner's counsel, James M. Fawcett, mapped out a bitter legal fight which conceivably may drag out in the courts for an indefinite period.

Over and above the purely technical aspects of the case, the perils of extradition for Hauptmann were brought home more forcibly than ever before by the disclosure that Col. Lindbergh had three identified Hauptmann's voice as that of the ransom receiver who called to Dr. John F. Condon in St. Raymond's cemetery on the night of April 2.

RELEASE DEMANDED
With Attorney General David Wilentz, of New Jersey, due to announce the date of the intended extradition today, indications were that Hauptmann's counsel will sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

This move will be possible after Hauptmann comes up in a court of record on the extradition warrant and makes an affidavit that he is guiltless of the crime.

A delay may then occur while the writ is being argued. And even if it is summarily set aside it may be appealed. Even if all court proceedings are rushed, as they unquestionably will be, a tedious interval may elapse.

The fact that some such strategy is being planned was confirmed in ringing tones by Fawcett himself. He said: "I'll fight extradition to the last ditch. I'll go to Gov. Lehman, if necessary, to prevent any attempt to move my client to New Jersey."

But Attorney General Wilentz refused to admit that there would be any trouble in extraditing

Hauptmann. He disclosed that a representative of his office would be in Albany by tomorrow night to confer on procedure with Gov. Lehman. He commented dryly: "If Hauptmann is innocent I see no reason why his counsel should oppose extradition. I anticipate no difficulties. We expect to try him for murder."

So far as Bronx District Attorney Foley's plans for trying the suspect on an extortion charge are concerned, there was little consolation for Hauptmann in the prosecutor's attitude. If the Bronx district attorney insisted on proceeding with the extradition trial on Thursday, Hauptmann would be spared the immediate ordeal of extradition.

But when Foley was asked whether he would move to dismiss the extortion case, he made this laconic reply:

DISMISS AFTER DEATH
"Sure. I'll dismiss it after Jersey has electrocuted him."

Although there has been no pause in the routine of preparing for the extradition trial in the Bronx on Thursday, Foley was to be one of the conferees today in Trenton, and there was no doubt that he would co-operate in plans for immediate extradition.

In Albany, it was indicated that Gov. Lehman would act promptly on the application for extradition as soon as he receives it from Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey.

The governor is expected to be back at his desk on Wednesday. He may decide to grant a hearing to Hauptmann's counsel but he is not obliged to do so by law. Nevertheless, the embattled attorney said he was determined to gain the governor's ear. He added:

"We will produce witnesses in any court to show that Hauptmann was not at Hopewell the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped nor at St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx the night the $50,000 ransom was paid."

This assertion was by way of a retort to District Attorney Foley's statement in open court that the evidence placing Hauptmann in the cemetery was not circumstantial but was based on an actual identification.

NAMED BY LINDBERGH
Foley refused to say who identified Hauptmann, but the identification was that Col. Lindbergh had put the "finger" on the suspect.

BARN DANCE AT CLIFTONA

One of the best radio units appearing on national stations and heard through central Ohio from WLS, KDKA and WLW, will appear in person at the Cliftona Theatre Thursday, October 11 for a matinee and evening performance. This group is known as the WLS Barn Dance Show and is comprised of 20 people.

People of the rural sections of Pickaway-co., as well as others, have heard this show over the Agricultural Broadcasting Company's station, WLS in Chicago, as they have been on the air every Saturday evening for the past nine years.

PATSY MONTANA

This 22 year old lass appears with the Barn Dance Show. She is a real cowgirl and has been featured in pictures with Hoot Gibson, the famous cowboy actor.

The show is under the direction of Ezra Buzzington and the band is made up of nine people with singing, dancing, talking and playing comedy novelty instruments.

Numbers on their bill here will include: Skyland, Scotty, the Mountain Boy singer with guitar; Girls of the Golden West, singing with guitar; Billy Woods, xylophonist; Max Terhune, the Hoosier Mimic; Three Neighbor Boys, singing comedy with guitar and exhibition square dancers.

What Will YOU Do to Help?

FACE the fact that you yourself, either through carelessness or indifference, are partially responsible for America's annual fire bill: 10,000 lives, 10,000 injuries, $500,000,000 property damage.
Face the further fact that you have paid your share of that bill in taxes and insurance premiums.
Finally, consider the possibility that next year your life, or the life of a dear one, may be numbered among the 10,000; that your property may be listed in next year's toll. What are you going to do about it?

Certainly there are numberless things you can do. Much progress has been made in the knowledge of fire, its causes, and its prevention. Science has contributed no end of equipment both for preventing and fighting fire. Modern building materials and methods of construction, modern heating systems, fire extinguishers, safety deposit vaults and professional garment cleaners all offer means for doing your bit to conquer man's most terrifying enemy. Take advantage of these agencies for your protection. Adopt precautionary measures; do everything in your power to lessen the tragic waste of fire. You owe it to yourself, your family and your neighbor.

To find the boss of the house, observe which one is taking a nap when nobody dares make a racket.

Dangerous Driving Days

DANGEROUS days are ahead for the motorist and pedestrian. Snow, ice, rain, fog, long nights and low visibility combine to make fall, winter and spring and to increase the hazards of traffic.
From October until May one is safer in the security of his own home.

Timely warning was given by the American Automobile Association to the operator of a motor vehicle and to the pedestrian as the days become shorter and driving conditions become adverse. The warning will go unheeded by most but it will save some lives and prevent a great deal of anguish.

Those who are resigned to the thought that no amount of education, propaganda, control of regulation can materially reduce the number of traffic accidents will find refutation in the history of the school patrol. Although the number of school children and the number of motor vehicles have both increased tremendously since the school patrol was organized, the accident rate among children going to and from school has diminished from year to year.
Adequate control is the best accident preventive.

The automobile and motor truck have bested King Winter to become mediums of transportation in all seasons but the driver who overlooks the fact that rubber finds its best traction on a clean, dry highway and that the eye sees best through a clean windshield in clear weather is likely to find the next several months dangerous months.

Manners of the Old

YOUTH is too well-mannered to say so but it did not reflect the best of manners on his part when Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University observed before his student body that the manners of modern youth are "time and again quite shocking." It is decidedly bad manners to speak of the bad manners of others.

There are no statistics on the subject but it is quite probable that youth is as often shocked by the bad manners of its elders as old age is shocked by the manners of youth. No generation ever was as perfect as it might have been.
One sometimes wonders if the elders are actually as shocked as they pretend to be. Sometimes their reaction to the manners of youth seems more like envy than disgust. But when youth is shocked there is no mistake about it.
Youth hasn't been running this world but it will be running the world if the old and the gray continue behaving shockingly bad mannered things. The manners of the mature may be above reproach in social relations but the manners in which the "old man" does things politically, diplomatically, industrially and financially is often open to criticism.

DEATH SONG

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Selfert Vail, the most unpopular patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest-Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon and the other, a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillyer, playwright and patient, agree that the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors.
Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph.
Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You" sung by him and his wife.
Felipa claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren, and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Finch. Mark, a nurse, Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, does not appear at breakfast.

CHAPTER XIII

"Are you sure Felipa's not in her room?" I asked.
"I looked in before breakfast," Clendening said.
"I began to feel uneasy."
"What time does she usually have breakfast?" I asked.
"At some ungodly hour," he announced. "She gets up about 6.30, makes her bed and is back from breakfast, usually, before any of us are up. I've never known her to be late before."

"Do you mind if I call the office and find out whether she's in the servants' dining room?"
The two men looked at me curiously. The color began to drain from Cross's face. Clendening nodded a silent assent, and I picked up the telephone. The clerk on duty in the lobby promised to call on me and call me back. I sat down before the telephone and was waiting for it to ring when James Rux-ton returned from breakfast. He raised his eyebrows as he saw me.
"Good morning," I said. "Have you seen Felipa this morning, Mr.
Ruxton?"

"He thought for a moment and then shook his head. 'No, I have not.' He glanced at Clendening and Cross and a perplexed frown appeared on his face. 'Isn't she here?'" he asked.

"Dr. Calvert came up on the porch and entered the living room. He saw immediately from our troubled faces, that something was wrong.
"What's the matter?" he demanded.

"The telephone rang and I picked up the receiver quickly. The clerk said, 'Felipa hasn't been in the dining room this morning. Is she—'"
I did not wait to hear his question. I turned around and said,
"Felipa hasn't been seen this morning."

"Dr. Calvert almost ran to her room. 'The little fool!' he muttered. Clendening sprang to his feet. 'She's run away!' he cried.
"I might have known she would!"
We could hear the physician hastily pulling out the drawers of her bureau. In a moment he came out into the living room. He said, "Some of her clothes seem to be gone."

Clendening walked to her open door and looked in. He turned to us with a puzzled expression.
"Did you see anything on the table?" he asked Dr. Calvert.
"Nothing except her alarm clock,"
the doctor answered.

Clendening, frowning, passed his hand over his eyes.
"That's funny," he said. "I looked in her room when the breakfast trays came, and I'm sure there was something under the clock—a piece of paper. It caught my eye because it was fluttering in the breeze."
The doctor shook his head. "It wasn't there when I went in. Maybe it blew on the floor."

We were all gathered in the doorway by then. Dr. Calvert got down on his hands and knees and looked under the bed and the bureau. He arose, dusting his hands, and shook his head.

Mark was suddenly alert. "No," he said. "What is it?"
"Felipa's disappeared," I said.
"No," he cried. Sue looked startled and surprised.
"She ran away last night," I continued, and I told them what had happened at the cottage that morning. When I had finished, Mark nodded slowly.

"Of course," the sheriff didn't think of having her watched, even though he knew she was frightened and lying," he said.
"He probably drove her away with his bullying," Sue said indignantly.

"Have you heard whether they've found her, Loren?" Sue asked.

"Nothing there," he said. "You must have been mistaken."
"Look!" Clendening said. "The window!"
I followed his pointing finger. The table, on which the alarm clock was still ticking, was directly in front of one of the windows and the curtain was blowing gently into the room.

"The screen's raised!" Clenden-ing cried.
I noticed then that there was two feet of space between the window sill and the bottom of the screen.

When I arrived at Mark's room, promptly at 10 o'clock, I found him and Sue engaged in an animated discussion of Vail's murder. To be more accurate, Mark was discussing it and Sue was listening.

"Hi!" Mark said, grinning at me.
"How's the assistant sleuth?"
"Fine," I said. "Hello, Sue. I see he's broken down your resistance."

"She smiled and said, 'I can't prevent his talking, can I?'"
"Listen to her," Mark jeered.
"Pretending she's just humoring me! You know darn well you're just as interested as anyone in the sanatorium. You wouldn't be human if you weren't."

Sue became serious. "I am interested, of course," she said, "but it isn't amusing to me, as it seems to be to you. It frightens me."
"Nobody's going to bump you off, sweetheart," Mark said. "There's no reason to be scared."

"Perhaps not," she said. She stood up abruptly and said, "Don't you want to go out on the porch?"
"No," he said, "it's going to be another hot day, and it's cooler inside."

"Have you heard the latest?" I asked.

"But what about the paper on the table?" Mark said. "Did you see it, Bob?"
I shook my head. "I didn't get a look at the room until Dr. Calvert had searched it. Clendening was the only one who saw the paper, if there was one."

"Hm," Mark said. "That's something more to think about. Have they found any trace of the girl?"
"I don't know. Nobody will talk.
I saw one of Finn's deputies driving toward the village."

"Going to see if she got a train
there last night," Mark commented.
"Well, I wish Finn luck. He's going to need it."

There was a knock on the door and Loren Ruxton's voice outside called, "Are you decent?"

"No, but come in anyway," Mark said.

Loren looked very cool and handsome in his white linen suit. He smiled at me particularly at Sue —and said, "Bet you a dollar I know what you were talking about."

"No takers," said Mark. "Have you heard about Felipa?"

Loren nodded. "Yes. Things happen so fast here, I'm dizzy."

"Have you heard whether they've found her, Loren?" Sue asked.

"Sunk without a trace," he said.
"The sheriff would be tearing his hair, if he had any hair. The station master swears she didn't take the 10.37 train last night or the 5.05 this morning, and if she went to the village, she walked the whole five miles, because none of the taxi drivers took her. I hear Finn's asked the New York police to look for her."

Dangerous to Neglect a Felon

Serious Complications Often Follow This Common Infection

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FELON is a common affliction. It is caused by germs which have penetrated the skin of the finger. As a rule it can be traced to a slight wound, such as a pin scratch or pin prick. Often the injury is trivial and is overlooked or forgotten until pain occurs.

This is probably why felons are so prevalent.
The victim neglects the tiny scratch and fails to apply the necessary antiseptic.
He does not realize that as the result of so trifling a break in the skin, germs enter and cause infection.

Though a felon is rarely dangerous it must never be neglected. The pain and discomfort of this condition should give warning of how important it is to prevent further spread of the infection. If overlooked, serious complications may occur. Many cases of so-called blood poisoning can be traced to what in the beginning was a trivial infection of the skin.

May Infect the Bone

The first signs of infection after a scratch or laceration of the finger, are throbbing and a feeling of fullness. The finger soon swells and the pain becomes severe, almost unbearable. When this occurs never postpone consulting a physician. If pus is present the doctor will make an incision and allow it to drain out.
Provision will be made for drainage.
Lack of medical attention may certainly result in a more serious infection. If the infection persists and goes deeper, there is always danger of infection of the bone. Osteomy-elitis, or infection of the bone, is a serious and dreaded complication. It delays recovery and makes convalescence a very slow process.

As I have pointed out, neglect may lead to spread of the infection into the hand and up the arm as well as into the deeper tissues. In that event a major operation may be necessary to save the hand or arm.

Never look upon a scratch or skin injury as a matter of no consequence.
Treat on the safe side. It is a good plan to apply a simple antiseptic, such as tincture of iodine. When in doubt consult your doctor.

Avoid Complications

I am confident that if these precautions were taken, felons would be less frequent and many serious complications would be avoided. Finger deformities and hand disabilities are all too common. They can be prevented by prompt attention to all hand injuries.

Every home, office and work shop should be equipped with the essentials of first aid. There should be a first aid kit. An adequate supply of bandages, gauze and suitable antiseptics should be available at all times. Immediate treatment at the start will prevent many hours of pain and suffering.

Answers to Health Queries

D. H. Q.—Where there is no indication of itching piles would an itching of the parts be a symptom of bookworm?

A.—No, the trouble may be due to insect bites or to some other irritation. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

THE Worst Joke I heard today

He is over here in Europe now like

He is about the best talker that one on the state of Arizona.

A fellow who had been out there and got broke and had to stay longer than he thought, only had about one lone dollar and he went into a restaurant and the waiter came up to him and said, "Sage Hen." It was the main dish that day and he thought of course it would be taken by the customer.

"What's sage hen?" asked the proprietor of the lone buck.

"It's like Prairie Chicken. They kill it out among the sage brush."

"Has it got wings?" asked the old boy that didn't crave Arizona.

"Yes," replied the Waiter.
"Well, then, I don't want it. Anything that has got wings and stays in Arizona, I don't want to eat such a crazy thing."

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Again turning to the stage for material, the Broadway Pictures brings to the screen as "Sour Grapes" to the screen as
"Let's Try Again," the latest co-starring vehicle for Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook, of "Cavalcade" fame.

Treating an age-old marriage problem in an entirely new and original way, "Let's Try Again" shows how the dying spark of romance is rekindled and glows with a steadier flame.

Chagrined by her husband's waning romantic interest, the wife of the story looks afield for sympathy, understanding in a much younger man. Flattered by her interest in him, this youth, who is engaged to a girl of his own age, becomes madly infatuated with the wife, and vows undying devotion. The wife, as deluded as her new-found flame, becomes convinced that her happiness lies with him.

When she informs her husband of this state of affairs, the plot takes an original twist, and surprising events follow in rapid succession and with dramatic effect.

As the husband and wife, Brook and Miss Wynyard star in "Let's Try Again," supported by Helen Vinson, Irene Hervey, Theodore Newton and Arthur Hoyt.

AT THE GRAND

Add to the list of those who are not in immediate danger of "Going Hollywood" Lew Ayres.

"Been broke in this town too often for anything like that," declares the young former University of Arizona student.

Ayres is playing his thirtieth screen role as the sailor-hero of
"She Learned About Sailors," with Alice Faye as the "she" and Harry Green, Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant as the other featured players. It's at the Grand.

Cardinal Players Want 'Dizzy' on Mound Today

As Buckeyes Crushed Hoosiers

Reaching the goal line is Frank Boucher, Ohio State back, who has just completed a 75-yard run to touchdown. One of the thrills in Ohio's 33-0 triumph over "Do" McMillin's Indiana squad in the opening Big Ten game in Columbus.

though he won one game for them in this series.

Yes; this has been a dizzy series and Dizzy Dean is far from being the dizziest lad in it. As a matter of fact, once they're out on the field, he's probably the smartest one on it.

CARDS CRAZY

But there's many a laugh in all of them. For instance, take the Cardinals' clubhouse after yesterday's game where all the Red Birds from out boy to manager are busy kissing each other like a lot of French generals bestowing the Croix De Guerre.

Listen to the Cards' husky 19-year-old catcher, Bill DeLancey, speaking in his slowest Nawth Carolinah drawl: "Them newspaper writers misquoted me. I nevah said Brick Owens was a thieving umphah. No, suh, I ain't no sissy. What I said was: 'You're a blank wound. That was an unfortunate ety blank, blank, blank' what's

ARMBRUST LEADING OHIO GRID SCORERS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Despite the attempt of Ohio's gridgers to catch up on the idle Elden Armbrust of Ohio University, a computation of individual scorings today showed that John Zontini, of Marshall, was the closest competitor but that he remained three points short.

Armbrust, 140 pound back, piled up 33 points in the game against Rio Grande two weeks ago. Although he has not scored since, Armbrust still leads the pack.

Zontini got three touchdowns against Bethany Saturday, but it brought his total to 30.

John Turvey, of Ohio Wesleyan, is in third place by virtue of two touchdowns and two extra points last Friday night in the Dayton game.

certain terms being knocked flat at the plate by Orsatti.

"Hell," consorted old Goose Goslin. "Just think what would have happened if the crazy cave man had hit yuh." Mickey grinned, then winced as the doctor worked on the knee. It developed that the "crazycaveman" Goslin referred to is Pepper Martin.

"Yeh, that's right," said Mickey. "I had more than enough of that guy once before. Those Cards are the craziest lot of lunatics I've ever seen on one ball club. They're all half nuts. I don't see how the rest of them have nerve enough to call Dean, Dizzy. They're dizzier than he is.

About This And That

"MIGHT NOT HAVE BEEN"

Paul Dean, stronger in this world series than his more publicized brother, Jerome, might not have been with the Cardinals this year had he not produced at a strategic moment—Early in the season Paul did not do so well; in fact, those National league teams seemed a little too tough for the rookie from Columbus. He was driven from the box in his first two appearances and was just about ready to hop a rattle to Columbus again when he entered a game and pitched but one inning. The result is that Paul was one of the stars of the National league season, and that today he is the world series hero.

PITCHERS DOUBTTFUL

"Shoot the works" will be the by-word of Managers Frankie Frisch and Mickey Cochrane this afternoon.—One team has a good chance as the other in our belief with the aces of both staffs tired and not ready to climb the mound. Rowe should not, but may go back to the hill while Dizzy Dean is showing the effects of his hard work. Paul has strength enough to go again and may get a chance before the day is over. The logical ball choices seemed to be Hallahan for the Cardinals and Auker or Crowder for the Tigers.

TIGERS TO GRANDVIEW

Cleveland's Tigers must do some perking up or they are going to lose another Central Buckeye league fray by a big score to Grandview Friday in that town. Marvsville pulled a surprise by beating the Red and Black by a top-sided score—Grandview defeated Delaware by as big a margin. Coach Herberholz had his boys working hard Monday night and will probably drive them the remainder of the week in an effort to forge together a fighting combination. We still insist that a line which does not charge cannot stop the onslaughts of another team's ball carriers.

Rothrock Scoring That All Important First Run

Flashing into home plate in the first inning of the sixth world series game, played in Detroit, is Jack Rothrock, St. Louis outfielder, to score the first of the Red Birds' runs in their dramatic 4-3 victory over Schoolboy Rowe. This game evened the series at three-all.

BIRDS IN LEAD

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Determined to end the Little World's Series the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Columbus Red Birds will meet in a sun-moon doubleheader today if necessary to decide the minor league championship.

With Columbus within one game of the championship by virtue of the 9 to 8 win last night in a last minute uprising, the series may not go into the moon part of the doubleheader tonight, but if Toronto wins the afternoon game, putting the series at four games each, then the battle will end under the floodlights tonight.

Only a few more than 1,500 customers watched the Birds come from behind to win in the ninth inning last night.

Don Brennan, on the mound for the Leafs, held the Birds in check with ease until the ninth inning. Then he cracked, and five runs crossed the plate off of his last offerings and those of Hilcher.

The Birds used Heusser, Greer and Cross as hurlers in an effort to break up the hitting of the Leafs.

race, for no other conference game is scheduled until the following Saturday when Ohio will play at Miami in what should prove to be one of the outstanding game in the conference this year.

BISHOPS 13 TO 0

Marshall lost to the Bishops, 13 to 0, at Delaware last year, but the Thundering Herd is reported to be stronger this fall. The result of Saturday's game is considered a toss-up.

Magenta Color

Magenta, a purplish-red hue, is less than 100 years old as a color name. In 1857, the Italians and Austrians fought near Milan, in the town of Magenta. Garibaldian volunteers are said to have appeared wearing uniforms of a strange new color. From that date on, this particular hue has been known as "magenta."

This Great Crowd Saw Cards Humble Rowe

Here are some of the 14,000 thrilled baseball fans who saw the St. Louis Cardinals' humble Schoolboy Rowe, Tiger pitcher, in the sixth game of the world series, played in Detroit. The Red Birds' victory forced the series into seven full games, with the teams tied at three-all.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Walter Futter, of the Futter Productions Co. I got tangled with Walter out at Goldwyn's Movie Studio in Culver City. That was what you call a cutter. That is a fellow that if the picture hasn't been taken bad enough in the first place, why he cuts it all up and puts it back together so it makes it look like something. Well, here I meet him in Berlin the other day and he is a real producer and buyer and seller of Movies, and is a real live hustling kid. If you haven't gone into the movie business yet, why you can't do worse than Walter. He will sell you anything that was ever taken. Well, we sit having "Ein Dunkle" one night, arguing over the movies, and just as I was going to sleep he broke out with the following: He went back home to where he had lived in Pennsylvania. He asked about a certain Jones family that used to live there and they told him here is what happened to them. "Tom, he is out where you come from in Hollywood. He is in the Movies. He is a Movie Shiek and doing fine, they say, Jack, that's the next one; he turned stage Actor and you see his picture ever once in awhile. William is an Artist; he is a pretty good Painter, they say. Mary, the Sister, is doing some Literary work, but Sam, he never amounted to anything at all. He stayed here, and it just took about all he ever made to support the rest of them."

Counterfeiting

Counterfeiting, on the increase ever since New Deal currency was rushed through the presses, is keeping the Secret Service busy in Washington.

On every Government payday, several hundred thousand dollars of new money is put into circulation. And filtering into this is an alarming amount of counterfeit.

Most of it is so perfect an imitation that frequently it passes through the hands of bank-tellers before detected. Secret Service operators suspect that the ring has employed several former engravers from the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

That the Treasury is tightening its grip on the counterfeiting operations, however, is indicated by the fact that rans a bogus money

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

A Reduction for Cash

By IRVIN S. COBB

ANY SCOT will tell you that, while as a race the Scotch are thrifty, it is in Aberdeen that thrift is an exact science. And it was in Aberdeen, so the story runs, than an especially frugal citizen entered an apothecary's shop or, as we would say in America, a drugstore. He told the proprietor that he wished to purchase tripence worth of morphine.

The chemist pondered over a request so unusual. Customarily he sold the drug only on a physician's prescription; but this customer was known to him as reputable and responsible. Nevertheless, he must make sure the purpose was proper.

"Tripence worth of morphine, eh?" he said. "What would you be wantin' it for?"

"The native thought a moment.

"Tupence," he said.

have dropped from 20 per cent to ten per cent. In other words the "passer" now pays only $100 for $1,000 of bogus bills where he once paid $200. The difference between what he pays and the face value of the bill represents the potential profit to him.

Merry-Go-Round

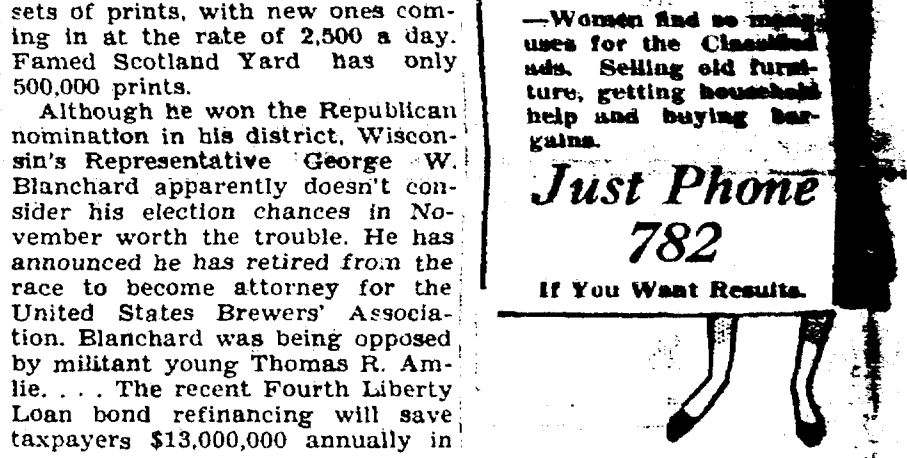

Calvert Magruder, Harvard law professor recently appointed general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, began his legal career in 1916 as secretary to Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Magruder was the first of the long succession of brilliant young Harvard law graduates who have served one year's apprenticeship under the liberal jurist. Four of Brandeis' former secretaries are professors of law at Harvard, one at Yale, one at Wisconsin, another at Minnesota. . . . Fingerprinting as a crime detector was originated in England in the early 1890's, but today the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department has the most modern and complete collection of fingerprints in the world. J. Edgar Hoover began this collection in 1920, with two clerks assigned to the job. Today this work requires 315 experts and assistants. The collection contains 4,500,000 sets of prints, with new ones coming in at the rate of 2,500 a day. Famed Scotland Yard has only 500,000 prints.

Although he won the Republican nomination in his district, Wisconsin's Representative George W. Blanchard apparently doesn't consider his election chances in November worth the trouble. He has announced he has retired from the race to become attorney for the United States Brewery Association. Blanchard was being opposed by militant young Thomas R. Armie. . . . The recent Fourth Liberty Loan bond refinancing will save taxpayers $13,000,000 annually in interest charges. The bonds were exchanged for 10 to 12 year bonds at 3 1/4 per cent or for four-year notes carrying 2 1/2 per cent. Central Bank advocates are losing what he pays and the face value of the bill represents the potential profit to him.

Splendid Talent Obtained For Series at Capital U.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—An unusual array of excellent attractions have been scheduled to appear on the current season of the Capital University Concert Lecture series to offer the public seven outstanding concerts.

The season opens October 26 with the popular radio tenor, Nino Martini, whose debut in the Metropolitan Opera last season was the sensation of the year. This young Italian who is so familiar to radio fans, is capable of singing with ease the "F" above high "C," which is the highest known voice in the musical world of men singers.

COSSACKS NOV. 17

On November 17 the Don Cossacks Russian Male Chorus will make their fourth consecutive appearance in Columbus to try to sing for the hundreds of admirers who have been unable to hear them, so far, in spite of packed houses. The Cossacks sing an entirely new program of Russian music and present some interesting Russian dances. On that date they appear in both matinee and evening performances.

The London String Quartet, without question the world's most outstanding string quartet, is scheduled to appear in Mees Hall on the 4th of December. It will be their first appearance in this territory for a number of years; their advent is hailed with joy by the music enthusiasts.

The music of Spain reminds us of the warm romantic temperament of the South lands. Jose Iturbi, son of sunny Spain, reveals that characteristic warmth in his ennobling piano concerts. He is to appear in a piano concert on January 29. He is also a very successful conductor of opera.

HALLIBURTON GONE
A children's number, a special lecturer (yet to be selected—Richard Halliburton, previously engaged, having embarked upon a tour around the world) and a concert by the Capital University Glee club under the direction of Wilbur E. Crist will complete the series. The Glee Club will sing in March and the children's number will be presented some time in April. For further information write to the Capital University Conservatory of Music or call Evergreen 4415.

Stop Guessing About Styles!

SEND FOR THE NEW MARIAN MARTIN
PATTERN BOOK
AND KNOW.

Once you have gone through the NEW MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK, line by line, sketches and text, there will be no more guessing about the new styles, you will KNOW. There they are... in a collection of skillfully designed patterns for maid, matron and little child... patterns that you can make yourself without difficulty even if you have never made a garment before. And there are other things in this surprising book of ours... articles about corsets, the new fabrics, how to shop, etc. See today's pattern feature for ordering instructions.

BASEBALL BETTING BRINGS MERRIMENT

POMEROY, Oct. 9.—There were queer "goings on" in Meigs-co today.

Roy Holmes, prominent Syracuse resident, pulled a toy wagon loaded with barnyard fertilizer from east Pomeroy to Middleport, a distance of four miles, after the St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit in the world series game yesterday.

He had made the unusual wager with Carl Stalder and the latter recruited a large crowd to follow Holmes as he pulled the wagon.

MAN INVESTIGATED

A man who gives his name as Joe Mulner, 28, of Detroit, has been placed in the county jail by Deputy Miller Fissell and Highway Patrolman Crume for investigation. Mulner is booked as a suspicious person.

AMERICAN WOMEN HELD BY CHINESE

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Chinese Communists in Kichow have kidnapped a number of missionaries, including an American, Miss Grace Emblen, according to a cable received by the China inland mission from Shanghai today.

All the others were believed to be British.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Thirty-five members of the crew of a Japanese ship turned pirate, raided and sacked the British island of Hagerstone, 125 miles from Thursday Island, between Australia and New Guinea, says a dispatch in the London Daily Herald from Brisbane, Australia, today.

The Japanese landed while the few settlers were absent from their village, smashed the landing stage, looted the cottages, and burned the coconut groves, according to the dispatch.

Officer's Murderer Electrocuted Today

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 9.—Boastful and defiant to the last, Edward Coffin, 21, of Greenfield, was sent to his death in the electric chair here today for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick, of Scott-co.

On June 6, last, Coffin, discouraged because he could not find work, joined a youthful gang and was alleged to have been the trigger man in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Amick and the fatal wounding of John Pfaffenberger, a Seymour policeman.

A group of Greenfield citizens gave their services free in pleading with Governor Paul V. McNutt to spare the life of Coffin. He was termed the "boy who never had a chance." The governor debated the case until Monday afternoon and then declined to interfere.

WOMAN STRANGLED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 9.—Strangled with a man's handkerchief, jammed in her throat, the body of a young woman recovered from the St. Joseph's river near here furnished authorities today with an apparent murder mystery.

After an autopsy was performed on the unidentified body Deputy Coroner Paul Haley announced that the woman had died of strangulation. The handkerchief found thrust in the victim's throat bore the initial "W."

Haley expressed belief she had been murdered.

Headed for Divorce?

Though she steered clear of reporters after taking up residence in Reno, Nev., Mrs. Marshall Field III, second wife of the millionaire grandson of the Chicago department store founder, is said to be planning divorce action. Above is a late picture of Mrs. Field, the former Mrs. Dudley Coates of London, with her husband, Marshall Field III, inset.

Effect of Paint on Glass

The national bureau of standards says that black paint "draws heat" in the sense that it absorbs 96 to 97 per cent of the sun's rays. Glass painted black becomes heated and not being well annealed, cracks. A white paint, or "white wash," reflects 60 to 75 per cent of the sun's rays, keeping the glass much cooler.

A Mystery in Sea Water

Sea water contains a mysterious substance that chemists have not been able to isolate. Fish go blind and die in artificial sea water made in a laboratory but live and thrive when as little as 2 per cent of genuine sea water has been added.—Collier's Weekly.

Lands Only to Lay Eggs

The Fulmar, a large, petrel-like seabird, resembling the common gull, found in both hemispheres and called by Darwin the most numerous bird in the world, never comes to land except to deposit its single white egg.

Entitled to Own Opinion

Jud Tunkins says every man is entitled to his own opinion, even if it doesn't happen to be worth much. Opinions are often like the land! Folks hang on, hoping that some time they will be in demand.

A Sidereal Year

The interval during which the earth makes one revolution around the sun is called a sidereal year and consists of 365 days 6 hours 9 minutes and 9.6 seconds.
